The Mkono Global Story — Using the 7-Element Framework

This document maps the Mkono Global message to the 7 elements of powerful storytelling. Every pitch, conversation, social media post, website section, and app onboarding screen should draw from these elements. The customer is the hero. Mkono Global is the guide. The story is theirs.

THE CORE RULE

People pay attention when you invite them into a story about them, not about you. Every time you speak about Mkono Global, the hero is the diaspora Kenyan — not the company, not the founders, not the technology.

1 The Hero (Character)

Every story needs a hero who wants something specific. The hero is NOT Mkono Global. The hero is your customer.

Who is the hero?

A Kenyan living abroad — in New Jersey, Toronto, London, Dubai, Germany — who sends money home to Kenya regularly. They have a mother who needs monthly medication. A niece whose school fees are due every term. A grandmother who needs groceries. A sister who needs eyeglasses. A parent whose house needs finishing materials.

What does the hero want?

Certainty. They want to know — not hope, not pray, not trust — that their money did exactly what they sent it to do. They want to see the receipt. They want to see the photo. They want to see the confirmation. They want to sleep at night.

2 The Problem

Without a problem, there is no story. Talk about the audience's problem more than anything else — it grabs attention because they recognize themselves.

The External Problem (what happened)

You sent KES 20,000 for your mother's medication. Did she buy it? You sent school fees to your sister. Was it actually paid to the school? You sent money for groceries, and three days later your brother calls asking for more money — but you never saw a single receipt.

The Internal Problem (how it feels)

You hang up the phone and lie awake at 2am in New Jersey, wondering if your money did what it was supposed to do. You feel guilt for not being there. You feel frustration because you cannot verify anything from 10,000 miles away. You feel anger when money disappears and stories change. You feel helpless because you love your family but cannot trust the process.

The Philosophical Problem (why it's wrong)

It should not be this hard to take care of your family from abroad. A person who works hard, earns honestly, and sends money home with love should not have to pray that it reaches its purpose. The system is broken — not because the money doesn't arrive, but because nobody is accountable for what happens after it does.

"This is the silent tax of being in the diaspora. Not the transfer fee. Not the exchange rate. The uncertainty. The broken trust. The prayers."

— Mkono Global, "Who We Are"

3 The Guide

You are not the hero. You are the guide — the one with empathy and authority who helps the hero win. Think Yoda, not Luke.

Empathy (we understand your pain)

"We built Mkono Global because we lived this problem ourselves. We lost over $50,000 sending money home over the years. We lost sleep. We lost trust in the people we love most. We know what it feels like to send school fees and find out your niece was sent home because the money went somewhere else. We know the 2am silence. We know the shame of doubting your own mother. We did not read about this problem in a report. We lived it. And we decided to end it — first for ourselves, then for every Kenyan abroad who knows this pain."

Authority (we can actually solve it)

- 500+ verified orders executed with a 100% success rate
- Zero orders lost — not one, not ever
- 3+ years of testing before launching — because when someone trusts you with money for their mother's medication, there is no room for error
- 75+ consecutive months of medication delivery without a single failure
- Proven across 22+ service categories — groceries, school fees, medication, eyeglasses, construction materials, government errands, gifts, and more
- We tested for 3+ years before launching — every route, every supplier, every process, every M-Pesa verification, every Sacco delivery, every WhatsApp coordination flow. We did not launch until we could guarantee results.
- Real-time decision-making authority — when a sister's eye doctor prescribes unexpected medication mid-order, our team gives the green light, redirects the budget, and sends you a reconciliation invoice for KES 896. No other service does this.
- Remote execution across Kenya — our team in Ruiru has executed orders as far as Nyeri (100+ km away) using M-Pesa verification, WhatsApp coordination, and Sacco transport. We delivered 5 trays of eggs via Uber car because boda boda was too risky. Zero eggs cracked.

4 The Plan

Give simple, clear steps. A 3-step process reduces confusion and builds trust. If the plan feels complicated, people walk away.

The Mkono Global Plan — 3 Steps

Step	Action	What You Do
1	YOU TELL US	Open the Mkono Global app or WhatsApp us. Tell us what you need executed in Kenya. From New Jersey, Dubai, Toronto, London, Germany — anywhere in the world.
2	WE EXECUTE	Our verified team on the ground executes your order — purchasing, delivering, paying, or verifying. Most orders are completed the same day or within 3 business days.
3	PROOF ON YOUR PHONE	Receipt. Photos. WhatsApp timestamped confirmation from your family member, employee, or guardian. Delivered directly into your phone. Case closed.

5 Call to Action

Tell people exactly what to do. Don't be vague. Don't say "learn more." Say what you want them to do right now.

Primary CTA

"Tell us what you need done in Kenya. We'll handle it and send you proof."

Variations for Different Contexts

Context	Call to Action
App Store listing	"Download the app. Submit your first order in 2 minutes."
WhatsApp / social media	"WhatsApp us now: +254 706 262 689. Tell us what your family needs."
Website	"Get started — your first order takes 2 minutes."
One-on-one conversation	"What does your family need right now in Kenya? I can have it handled this week with proof on your phone."
Church / community event	"If you've ever sent money home and wondered what happened to it — talk to me after. I'll show you how we solve that."
Referral ask	"Who in your family abroad is still sending money and hoping for the best? Send them our number."

6 Success (What Life Looks Like After)

Paint the positive outcome. Show them the better future. This is the vision that makes people take action.

The transformation

Before Mkono Global: You send money and pray. You lie awake at 2am. You call family and get vague answers. You feel guilty, frustrated, and helpless from 10,000 miles away.

After Mkono Global:

- You send a request. You get a confirmation. You get proof on your phone. You sleep.
- Your mother's medication arrives every month — 75+ months, zero failures. You stop worrying.
- You see a photo of your grandmother holding the groceries you sent. You feel present.
- Your niece's school fees are paid with a stamped receipt on your phone. You feel certain.
- Your sister texts you: "Hi bro nilizichukua sai naendelea vizuri nashukuru" — and you know everything is handled.

"Your money did exactly what it was supposed to do."

7 Failure (What Happens If They Do Nothing)

Stakes make people care. Show what continues if they don't act. This isn't fear — it's honesty about the cost of the status quo.

If they do nothing, nothing changes:

- The money keeps going. The receipts never come. The 2am worry continues.
- The brother keeps calling three days later asking for more money — and you still won't know why.
- The school fees might be paid. Or they might not. You'll never know for sure.
- Your mother's medication might be bought. Or the money might go somewhere else. No proof either way.
- Years pass. Thousands of dollars sent. Zero receipts. Zero photos. Zero certainty.
- The silent tax of the diaspora keeps growing — not the transfer fee, but the uncertainty, the broken trust, and the prayers.

Ready-to-Use Scripts

These are complete scripts you can use in conversations, pitches, social media, and presentations. Each one follows the 7-element framework.

The 30-Second Elevator Pitch

WHAT TO SAY WHEN SOMEONE ASKS "WHAT DO YOU DO?"

"You know how Kenyans abroad send money home for school fees, medication, groceries — and then just hope it gets used correctly? No receipt, no proof, just trust?"

Mkono Global fixes that.

You tell us what you need done in Kenya. We execute it — we buy the medication, pay the school fees, deliver the groceries — and then we send you proof on your phone. Receipt. Photos. WhatsApp confirmation from your family.

We've done this 500+ times with a 100% success rate and zero orders lost.

Your money does exactly what it was supposed to do. And you have the evidence."

The Community / Church Conversation

WHEN YOU'RE AT A KENYAN GATHERING AND SOMEONE MENTIONS SENDING MONEY HOME

"Can I ask you something? When you sent money home last time — for your mom, for school fees, for groceries — did you get a receipt?

[They'll probably say no, or laugh, or sigh]

That's exactly why we built Mkono Global. We're an execution service. You tell us what you need done in Kenya — medication delivered, fees paid, groceries bought — and we handle it. Then we send you the receipt, the photos, and a WhatsApp confirmation from the person who received it.

We've completed over 500 orders. 100% success rate. Not a single order lost.

[Then the CTA:] What does your family need right now? I can have it handled this week with proof on your phone."

The One-on-One With Someone Who Has Been Burned

WHEN SOMEONE TELLS YOU THEY HAVE BEEN SCAMMED OR HAD MONEY MISUSED

"I hear you. I lost over $50,000 the same way before I built this. Money for medication that was never bought. School fees that were never paid. Construction materials that were half of what I paid for. I know exactly what that feels like."

[Let them respond. They will share their own story. Listen.]

"That is why Mkono Global exists. We are not a money transfer company. We are the people who make sure your money does what it was supposed to do. We buy it. We deliver it. We photograph it. And we send you proof on WhatsApp — receipt, photos, confirmation from the person who received it."

"We have done this over 500 times. Not a single order lost. Not once. Because when someone trusts you with money for their mother's medication, you cannot afford a single failure."

"Try us with one small order. See the proof. Then decide."

The Story Post (When You Have a Moment to Share)

LONGER STORY FORMAT — FOR SOCIAL MEDIA, BLOG, OR PRESENTATION

My sister needed prescription eyeglasses. I'm in the US. She's in Kenya.

I sent the money through Mkono Global. But the order wasn't simple — it never is when health is involved.

First, the clinic required a new patient file. That wasn't in the budget. The Mkono team gave the green light on my behalf.

Then the doctor prescribed medication for her eye allergy. Also not in the budget. Green light again.

Then the glasses — the price had gone up from KES 12,500 to KES 14,000 since her last visit. Green light.

I had included pocket money for her. The team made a decision: her health came first. They redirected the pocket money to cover the medical costs and informed me.

The invoice was KES 896 short. They sent me a reconciliation invoice. I paid it. Everything was settled.

A few days later, my sister texted me:

"Hi bro nilizichukua saii naendelea vizuri nashukuru"

"I picked them up, I'm doing well, thank you."

Her headaches are gone. The eye allergy is treated. She can see clearly.

That's what Mkono Global does. Not just delivery. Trusted execution with real-time decision-making on your behalf.

Your money does exactly what it was supposed to do.

"No prayers needed. No hope. No guesswork. Just proof that my money did what it was supposed to do."
